

Please join us for a CSW parallel event:

Degradation of the Environment and Violence Against Women and Girls

There is wisdom in nature to do with diversity, adaptation, interdependency, and balance. Too many people, not enough trees will result in ecological and human disaster. The antidote requires empowered women, egalitarian education, reproductive rights and a shift in consciousness and activism from the ground-up. How do we create this shift in consciousness and activism?

Come find out how circles of women and NGO's are powering the movement towards sustainability.

Panelists:

Nina Simons. Co-founder Bioneers: "Related Stories: Violence toward women, indigenous people, and the Earth"

Donna Goodman. Founder Earth Child Institute (ECI), "Adolescent Girls at the Tipping Point of Sustainable Development," Climate Change and Children."

Jean Shinoda Bolen, MD. Millionth Circle convener: "Not Enough Trees, Too Many People = climate change. Empowered women are the solution."

Kaye Savage, Founder and Director of Excel Academy, Washington, DC

Kumbukani Mwanyongo, Girl Guide from Malawi, representing the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts (WAGGGS)

Moderated by Anneke Campbell, Author/activist, "The Power of Women Leading From the Heart"

Tuesday, March 5th, 2013

8:30 -10:00 am

United Nations Church Center, Drew Room

777 United Nations Plaza

(at the corner of 44th Street and 1st Ave)

New York, NY

Sponsored by: Earth Child Institute, Bioneers, Pathways To Peace, Millionth Circle Initiative